The Satire Essay Topics The satirical essay is one of the most popular forms of essays used by students at all levels to express their opinion on an often sensitive subject that cannot be discussed any other way. These creative essays rely on using sarcasm, irony, ridicule and humor as a literary device to criticize something or someone. If you have been asked to write such an essay then you should first consider your audience and purpose for writing it before crafting your ideas into a satirical work. The following are some example topics that may help spark your own unique writing process. 1) There is nothing funny about animal cruelty. However, there is something deeply disturbing about the killing of whales by Japan.

The Satire essay topics on this page are selected to provide examples of satire essay writing that you can use in your own work. These are only a few ideas however, and there are many other sources of satirical essays not listed here, so keep searching for more if you need inspiration! Topic Ideas 1 Drugs have been used by humans for hundreds or even thousands of years now. Some Native American tribes would take hallucinogenic drugs to receive guidance from God in their dreams; while ancient civilizations such as China and Egypt would drink concoctions made from opium to relieve pain. Nowadays, there are more drugs available than ever before and society is now faced with a huge addiction problem that stems from the illegal drug write essay for me. The government has tried to restrict this by making possession of drugs an offence. However, they also spend billions of dollars each year waging a "War on Drugs". This essay would ask the question - is it the 'drugs' or rather those who use them, that causes people to become addicts? 2 In recent years casual relationships have grown in popularity as less commitment can be seen as being easier when trying to juggle amongst family commitments and a social life. For example, young adults could easily find themselves in situations where you may be going out with someone one week but then another person the next, thus a "relationship" of sorts has started. With so much socializing and dating going on people can seem to be getting very close to each other quickly, but what happens if the relationship doesn't work out?
